Evidence classes

Class	Meaning
Catalog baseline	Product intent supplied by the maintained component catalog.
Static release evidence	Names, routes, configuration, manifests and declarations found in readable files.
Host evidence	Relevant readable systemd and Nginx configuration found on the machine.
Runtime verification	A test executed against the live deployment. This generator does not perform it automatically.

Known limitations

- This is static evidence extracted from files and readable host configuration; it is not runtime certification.
- Dynamic routes, generated configuration, secrets stores, databases, and inaccessible files may not appear.
- Potential credentials are intentionally redacted and raw source content is not copied into the report.

Review rule

Do not turn a candidate route, service or component into an authoritative promise until it has been exercised in the named release. Record the command, expected result, actual result, date and reviewer in Maintainer Notes or the relevant acceptance-test page.
